

Young Chin

Chief Investment Officer
Pyramis Global Advisors

Young Chin is chief investment officer of Pyramis Global Advisors, a Fidelity Investments company. Fidelity is one of the world's largest providers of investment management, retirement planning, brokerage, and human resources and benefits outsourcing services for individuals and institutions. Pyramis, with approximately $165 billion in assets under management as of June 30, 2008, focuses on investment products and solutions for institutional customers. Mr. Chin joined Pyramis in 2006 and oversees the firm's portfolio management, research, and trading functions.

Mr. Chin, a 28-year veteran of the investment management business, previously served as president and chief executive officer, Gartmore Global Investments, and co-global chief investment officer—equities, Gartmore Group, in Conshohocken, PA. In these dual roles, he oversaw investment units in the U.S., the U.K, and Japan with assets of more than $80 billion.

Prior to joining Gartmore, Mr. Chin was managing director, head of equity management, and director of equity management research for Brown Brothers Harriman in New York from 1999 to 2001. Previously, he served in a number of roles during the formation and building of PNC Financial's asset management business, including serving on the management committee of BlackRock. Mr. Chin began his investment career at Harris Bank in Chicago in 1978. Over a period of 14 years at Harris, including eight years serving as the director of a quantitative investment consulting service, he worked with more than 400 investment organizations that included investment advisors, pension plans, endowments, and foundations.

Born in 1957, Mr. Chin received a bachelor of arts degree in economics in 1978 and a master's degree in business administration in finance in 1982, both from the University of Chicago.
